How you can keep your banking more secure

It's important to keep your personal information secure, including your passcodes.

What's a passcode?

Examples of passcodes include your online banking login details like your Macquarie ID and password, usernames, PINs, SMS codes, and Authenticator push notifications and rolling codes.

Top tips

- Never share your passcodes with anyone, including a family member or friend.
- Keep your passcodes secure, try to commit them to memory and don't write them down without disguising them well - particularly on anything that can be lost or stolen alongside a payment card or device.
- Choose a passcode that isn't easy to guess - don't use repeated characters, consecutive numbers, your name, birth date, telephone number, driver licence number etc.
- Change your passcodes regularly.
- Always take care to protect the security and secrecy of your devices and passcodes.
- Download the Macquarie Authenticator app to enhance your banking security and help protect you from fraud.
- If you don't take reasonable measures to protect your passcodes and reduce your risk, you may be liable for unauthorised transactions according to Australia's ePayments Code (where it applies).
